3.4.1 Outcomes of Extension activities in the neighborhood community in terms of impact and sensitizing the students to social issues for their holistic development during the last five years.

- Our college is actively engaged in organizing a wide range of activities within the neighborhood community to sensitize students to social issues, which not only benefit the community but also contribute to the holistic development of the students.
- The College's NSS unit has led various extension and outreach programs in the surrounding areas, aimed at raising awareness among rural populations about prevalent societal concerns.
- Under the guidance of the IQAC, the college acts as a catalyst, fulfilling its institutional accountability and responsibility towards its stakeholders.
- During regular meetings, the IQAC consistently motivates and inspires the teaching staff, non-teaching staff, and students.
- Some of the key extension activities conducted by the college include Haritha Haram, Clean & Green (Swachh Bharat), celebrations of days of local, national, and international significance, general health camps, blood group identification programs, and anti-ragging and anti-eve teasing initiatives, as well as voter awareness programs.
- These activities are designed to promote social, ethical, and moral values among students, shaping them into responsible citizens.
- The impact of these initiatives is evident in the way students learn to socialize, develop a sense of social welfare, and contribute to community development.
- Through these activities, students acquire essential skills such as teamwork, leadership, time management, and effective communication.
- They are provided with a platform to interact with diverse cultures, traditions, values, ethics, behaviors, and societal attitudes.
- Furthermore, these extension activities reinforce values like gender equality, humanity, and equal rights, while creating awareness about social evils and preparing students mentally and physically for their eradication.
- The programs also help inculcate a sense of scientific temper and rational thinking among the students.
