To channelise their raw energies into fruition, and to address their social stigmas and prejudices, experiential learning yields better results as they learn on their own through this. Students understand and identify better if they comprehend problem and involve themselves to solve them. This is why experiential learning has gained immense prominence. Against this background, the following objectives are formulated for all-round development of students.

To make them imbibe the value of tolerance, empathy, sympathy and volunteerism, the following community outreach activities were designed, developed and executed.

4. The Practice:

Committees, departments and clubs are involved to execute the outreach activities .

1. Field trips
2. Counselling

4. Environmentally friendly activities

- The above mentioned entities analyse the issues faced by society, in a way, they envision future society.
- They develop action plan based on the current issues .

- Students enrol themselves in the clubs by exercising their option in outreach activities.

5. Evidence of success

- Villagers took precautions for maintenance of health and hygiene.

6. Problems Encountered and Resources Required

1. Initially, motivating students was a challenge.
2. Financial constraints were addressed by the college authorities and philanthropists.
3. Sensitising the villagers was a challenge.
4. Bringing in desired behavioural change among the villagers was a humongous task.

7.Responsible: Committees, departments and clubs
